

Africa Journal of Management

The Africa Academy of Management (AFAM) has established its first scholarly journal, the Africa Journal of Management, to be published by Taylor & Francis, starting in 2015.

The purpose of the Africa Journal of Management is to advance management theory, research, education and practice in Africa by promoting the production and dissemination of high quality manuscripts. The journal is designed to serve academic researchers and management practitioners in Africa and abroad. It will accept original theoretical and empirical research addressing contemporary issues relevant for management in Africa. We seek manuscripts which demonstrate clear understanding and draw on African management "indigenous" or local knowledge and practical realities and needs.
